ADMISSION NOTICE

MASTER OF PEACE, CONFLICT AND HUMAN RIGHTS STUDIES (MPCHRS) PROFESSIONAL

17th Batch, Trimester: January-April 2027, Session: 2026-2027(B)

(Deadline Extension)

BUP invites applications from potential candidates for Master of Peace, Conflict and Human Rights Studies (MPCHRS) under the Faculty of Security and Strategic Studies (FSSS).

Why to study Peace, Conflict and Human Rights Studies:

Despite remarkable technological advancement and human development, life across the societies became much more complex, competitive and at times chaotic. Conflicts, violence, discriminations and breach of human rights have become some common phenomena in different parts of the world in different forms and peace is in jeopardy. In fact, the intricacies and dynamics of modern life have added newer dimensions and challenges to these issues. These have revitalized the need of theoretical knowledge and professional skills to manage conflicts, promote peace and uphold the human rights in national and international arena. Considering that, Bangladesh University of Professionals designed Master of Peace, Conflict and Human Rights Studies program which helps its students to comprehend the meaning and aspects of peace, conflict and human rights providing theoretical insights to explain the realm of facts, systems and perceptions. It aims to develop theoretically insightful and professionally adaptive group of experts who can contribute effectively in resolving and managing conflict, building peace and promoting human rights in their personal, professional and social life.

Courses of MPCHRS program are designed to introduce students with the socio-political factors shaping human behavior as individuals, groups and policies from local community to international level. Attending these courses, students not only understand the factors that drive and trigger conflicts and insecurities, but also get acquainted with the tools, frameworks and strategies of managing conflicts and building peace as professionals. A diverse class facilitated by esteemed academicians will widen their areas of study. A number of faculty members will be from internationally reputed universities from different countries. Moreover, a course of research methodology and a supervised dissertation will prepare the students for in-depth methodological investigations through social research. It will enable them with the capacity to serve as efficient professionals in multiple sectors, especially security, development, human rights, humanitarian support, peacekeeping, peacebuilding and social research.
